

Rev. Kayla Robinson Harden

Short Bio:

Rev. Kayla Robinson Harden currently resides in Indianapolis with her husband, Nate. They have one three-year-old son and another son due in May 2019. She loves reading, movies, and chasing her preschooler around. She is passionate about discipleship and the role that intergenerational relationships have in the growth of young Christians.

Professional Bio:

Kayla Robinson Harden received her call to ministry as a senior in high school. She attended Anderson University where she earned her bachelor's degree in Bible and Religion. While at Anderson University, Kayla became connected with the Christian Women Connection as an intern. In 2012, she felt God calling her to serve as the Student Ministries Pastor in Glendale, AZ. She served there for over six years, expanding her responsibilities to include children's and young adult's ministries. She was active in the state, actively working with a team of youth pastors to plan the Arizona Youth Camp, a weekend of life change for over four hundred students and adults. In 2014, Kayla completed her Master of Divinity at Fuller Theological Seminary.

In 2016 Kayla began serving on the Christian Women Connection Board of Directors as the representative for young women. Kayla is also actively involved in Intern Academy, an organization focused on helping young adults through internship opportunities. She currently serves on the leadership team. She also serves as a coach in Lead 222, an organization that partners ministers together in coaching relationships to increase the health of ministers, their families and their ministries.
